PriceRunner

PriceRunner is a popular site where consumers can compare prices for many different products. The site was originally launched in 1999 and has grown dramatically since.

Until recently a proprietary technique was used for dispatching to the JSP pages on the site. In order to improve the dispatch handling and simplify maintenance a decision was made to implement Spring Framework for dispatching. Infoflex Connect was hired to act as a mentor during the migration in early 2007.
